Rexnord® Thomas® Axial Slide Disc Coupling

Maintenance Free Axial Slide Disc Couplings Replaces Traditional Gear Couplings

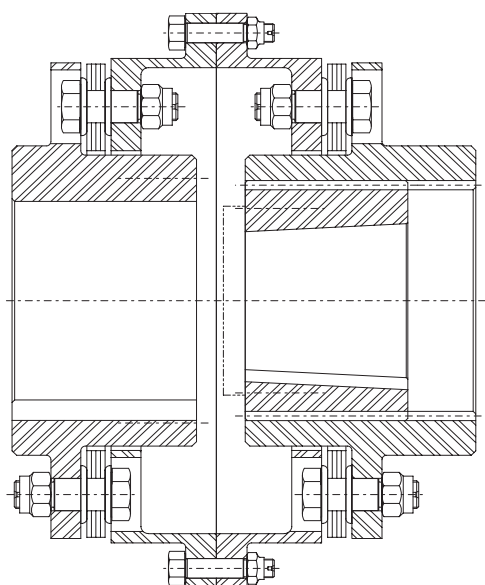

Are you tired of wasting time and money maintaining traditional gear couplings? If so, Rexnord has the solution for you. The new Rexnord® Thomas® Axial Slide Disc Coupling offers cost and time saving solutions for a variety of applications.

Here's how it works: the axial slide movement of the hub, with an impregnated lubricant, reduces friction and wear of components and eliminates the need for scheduled maintenance.

What does it mean to you? Increased uptime and reduced maintenance commonly found in traditional lubricated gear couplings.

Features & Benefits

Rexnord and Thomas are registered trademarks of Rexnord Industries, LLC.

- Replaces fully lubricated gear couplings with all the features of maintenance free disc couplings
- Floating hub has impregnated lubricant allowing it to slide with reduced wear
- Axial movement, the sliding action of the hub, reduces friction and wear of components and eliminates the need for scheduled maintenance
- Splined bores are also available providing additional configuration options
- Flexible disc packs allow for misalignment of the connected equipment
- High reliability, long life and durability even at temperatures up to 550 F
- Ideal for paper mill refiners, overhead bridge cranes, reclaimers, ball mills or any other heavy-duty axial or gear coupling application
